In the early 1980's I spent several years assembling a serious collection of political celluloid buttons and mirrors with advertising messages, mostly issued by local merchants and businesses. This past year I added several major rarities to the collection, and I have now decided to offer the entire group for sale. Most of these buttons range from scarce to virtually unique, and it may be years before many are seen again. In addition, later in the catalog are several rare advertising signs, trays, lithographs, etc.

The Kaiser Chuckles

Every Bushel of Grain that is diverted from supplying American Soldiers with Bread; from supplying American Workmen with Bread, is helping the Kaiser's game.

If the Kaiser could he would reach out his bloody hand and pat the man on the back who is boosting his game here in Ohio by voting wet.

Ohio has no grain to waste on beer or booze—now or ever—Ohio needs every ounce of grain for her soldiers and workers and for a hungry and starving world.

Vote Yes on Prohibition Nov. 5th.
